SONG OF THE PILGRIMS.

FROM MY SONG BOOK.

The breeze has scudded the whitening sail,
The blue waves curl beneath the gale,
And, bounding with the wave and wind,
We leave old England's shore behind—
Leave behind our native shore,
Homes and all we loved before.

The deep may dash, the waves may blow,
The storm spread out its wings of woe,
Till sailors' eyes can see a cloud
Hill in the folds of every cloud;
Still, as long as life shall last,
From that shore we'll speed on fast.

For we would rather never be,
Than dwell where misdeeds cannot be;
Than dwell beneath a misdeed's roof,
Even when it seems to worship God,
Blessed of Heaven, onward sweep!
Dear us o'er the troubled deep!

Oh, see what wonders meet our eyes!
Another land and other skies!
Columbia's hills have met our view!
Adieu—Old England, shores, adieu!
Here, at length, our feet shall rest,
Near to free, and homes be blest.

As long as you'd first shall spread
The green grass o'er the mountain's head!
As long as you'd first shall stand,
Where John the cross and the land;
Shall those cliffs and mountains be Proud retreats for Liberty.

JOHN HENDRICKS.

The Wife that meets one at the Door.

I never leave my home a day,
How often with others it may be—
But what I got when I come back,
Welcoming smile and hearty smack,
That make me love, still more and more,
The wife that meets me at the door.

Her dress is always neat and clean—
A pretty wife and yet not vain—
How when she slugs my favorite song,
How sure am I the music is wrong,
Who would meet him at the door—
A wife to meet him at the door.

The little chicken run to meet,
And pick the crumbs up at her feet;
Old Towler licks her proffered hand;
And frolics round her in the sand;
There's nothing like a wife and mother,
A wife that meets one at the door.

In social hall her smiling face,
In every heart wins quick a place;
The gayest find that walks the green,
Will tip his hat when she is seen,
And hope to meet, when towns are o'er,
Just such a wife at his own door.

Marrying for Money.

A woman who professes to speak from experience writes thus of marrying for money: "I was married for money. This was ten years ago, and they have been ten years of purgatory. I have had bad luck as a wife, for my husband and I have scarcely one taste in common. He wishes to live in the country, which I hate. I like the thermometer at seventy-five degrees, which he hates. He likes the children brought up at home, instead of at school, which I hate. I like music and wish to go to concerts, which he hates. He likes roast pork, which I hate; and I like minced veal, which he hates. There is one thing which we both like, and it is what we both cannot have, though we are always trying for it—the last word. I have had bad luck as a mother; for two such huge, selfish, passionate, unmanageable boys, never tormented a feeble mother since boys began. I wish I had called them both Cain. At this moment they have just been quarreling over their marbles. Mortimer has torn off Orville's collar, and Orville has applied his colt-like heel upon Mortimer's ribs, while the baby Zenobias, in my lap, who never sleeps more than half an hour at a time, and cries all the time she is awake, has been aroused by their din to scream in chorus. I have had bad luck as a housekeeper, for I never keep a chambermaid more than three weeks. And as to cooking, I look back bewildered on the long phantasmagoria of fees flying through my kitchen, as a mariner remembers a rapid succession of thunder gusts and hurricanes in the gulf of Mexico. My new chambermaid tumbled into the room yesterday, flinging her dusters and muttering: "Real old maid after all!" just because I showed her a table on which I could write 'elut' with my fingers in the dust. I never see my plump happy sisters, and then glance in the mirror at my own cowering, long, doleful visage, without wishing myself an old maid. Yet half of my sex marry as I did—not for love, but for fear—fear of dying old maids."

Corwin's Wit.

Tom Corwin, of Ohio, has probably the faculty of making a keen retort in a manner as sudden and cutting as any man now in public life, and they are uttered in a manner so pleasant, that it is not easy for a man to take offense at them. We remember two or three cases that have never been in print. In 1849, Geo. Lippard, a rampant novelist and somewhat egotistical insulator, who sported long curls and Byron collar, was introduced to Mr. Corwin, and as he shook his hand he said: "Mr. Corwin, I am very glad to make your acquaintance, for I have great respect for you, although I did blackguard you once."

"You blackguard me?" "Yes, about your Mexican war speech."

"Well," said Mr. Corwin, pursing up his mouth, "I thought you looked like a blackguard."

Judge Lane, of Alabama, called and spent a pleasant hour with him, and, as he was leaving, said: "Come down and see us, Mr. Corwin; see our negroes, and see how they live."

"Thank you, thank you, judge. I have been many years in Washington, and this is the first time I have been invited to go and visit my relations."

To appreciate this, one must see how very black Black Tom is. In one of his political tours through Ohio with Tom Ewing, he was invited to the house of a private citizen, in a town where a meeting was held, whose daughter presided at the table. Supposing as she was talking to great men she must use big words, she asked the old Mr. Ewing if he would take the "condiments" in his tea.

With a slow and sedate opening of his eyes at the word, the "Old Salt Boiler" replied, "if you please, Miss." On asking the same question of Mr. Corwin, he replied with a graphic smile, "Pepper and salt, if you please, Miss, but no mustard." That young lady refused to marry a man who voted for Mr. Corwin.

Dodging the Responsibility.

"Sir," said Fieryface, the lawyer, to an unwilling witness, "Sir, do you say upon your oath that Blimpkins is a dishonest man?"

"I did not say anybody had ever accused him of being a dishonest man, did I?" replied Pipkins.

"Does the Court understand you to say, witness, that the plaintiff's reputation is bad?" said the judge, merely putting the question to keep his eyes open.

"I didn't say it was good, I reckon."

"Sir," cried Fieryface, "sir, upon your oath—mind your oath—you say that Blimpkins is a rogue, a thief, and a villain."

"You say so," was Pipkins' answer. "Haven't you said so?" inquired the lawyer.

"Why, you've said it, and what's the use of my repeating it?" replied Pipkins.

"Sir," thundered Fieryface, the Domesthenian, "Sir, I charge you upon your oath to do, or do you not say Blimpkins stole things?"

"No, sir," was the cautious reply of Pipkins. "I never said Blimpkins stole things; but I do say he's got a way of finding things that nobody has lost!"

Artemas Ward's Courting Experience.

"'Twas a calm still nite in June, when all natur was hush & nary Zeffer disturbed the serene silence. I sot with the objerk of my heart's affections on the fence of her daddy's pasture. I had experianced a banker arter her for sum time, but darsant proelain mi parshon, wall we sot trow on the fence a swingin of our feet 2 & from & blushing as red as the Bauldenville skule house when it was first painted, & looking very cimpul, I make no doun. My left arm was okupied in hallousin myself on the fence while my right arm was wound affekshunly round Suzanner's waste."

Sez I, "Suzanner I thinks very much of you."

Sez she, "How you do run on!"

Sez I, "I wish there was winders in mi side so I could see some of my feelings, & I side deeply."

I paused here, but as she made no reply to it, I continued on in the following strane:

"Ar, cood yer know the sleepin nites I parso on yer account, how wittles has sest to be attractive to me & how my limbs is shrunk up ye woodn't doun me, not by no means. Gaze on this wastin form and these soken ize," I eride, jumpin up, & I shud have continued sum time longer probably, but unfortunately I lost my balance & fell over into the pasture for smash, taring my close and severely damagin myself generally. Suzanner sprung to my assistance & dragged me 4th in dabble quick time. Then drawin herself up to her full bite sed:

"I wou't listin to your monents any longer. Jest you sa rite out what you are drivin at. If you mean gitten blitche I'm in."

A Georgia Railroad.

The railroad between Kingston and Rome, in Georgia, if it is not a one-horse concern, is a mighty slow team. A friend of our's rejoicing in the name of Tick—a telegraph man, too—was riding upon the lightning train on this road, when he spied a negro tottling along with a pack on his back. In the exuberant generosity of his nature Tick exclaimed: "Halloo, Uncle! come aboard—come aboard and ride to town!" The polite and glistening African touched his beaver and replied: "Beg pardon, massa, but I can't; mus' git dar soon, habn't got de time to spare!"

When we met Tick in Rome, a short time afterwards, he expatiated warmly upon the merits of the safe road. Said he: "It is the cheapest ride in the United States—you can ride on it all day for a dollar!"

A pedagogue tells a laughable story of one of his scholars—a son of the Emerald Isle. He told him to spell hostility. "H-o-r-s-e, horse, t-i-l-l-y, ulity," said Pat. "Not horse-tility," said the teacher, "but hostility." "Sure," said Pat, "an' didn't you tell me the other day, not to say boss?" De jabbers, its the way thing the day, and the other the next!

Hall's Journal of Health, which claims to be high authority in medical science, has taken a stand against married people sleeping together, but thinks they had better sleep in adjoining rooms. It says that kings and queens do not sleep together, and why should other people?—Just think of separating a newly married couple on a cold winter night, because Hall's Journal of Health says so.

A teacher wishing to explain to a little girl the manner in which a lobster casts its shell when it has outgrown it, said, "What do you do when you have outgrown your clothes? You throw them aside, don't you?" "Oh, no!" replied the little one, "we let out the tucks!"

An old tar came down to the cabin of Nelson's ship one cold, drizzly day, with some message, whilst Lady Hamilton was present. Seeing the cold condition of the sailor, she asked which he would prefer—a glass of wine or a glass of brandy. "I don't matter which," replied Jack; "but if your ladyship please, I can be drinking the wine while you are pouring out the brandy."

A lady asked a noted doctor if he did not think the small bonnets the ladies wore had a tendency to produce a congestion of the brain. "Oh, no," replied he, "ladies who have any won't wear them."

A surly bachelor remarks that the ladies' fashions for the ensuing season show a persistent determination in the dear creatures to crawl out of their dresses, through the upper part.

A home without a girl is only half blessed; it is an orchard without blossoms, a bower without a bird, and a bird without song. A house full of sons is like Lebanon with its cedars; but daughters are like the roses in Sharon.

A person being asked why he had given his daughter in marriage to a man to whom he was at enmity answered—"I did it out of pure revenge."

There is a vast amount of grit in the "winners folk" when they undertake anything. An amusing incident was witnessed at the Depot of the Great Western Railway, a day or two since. An old lady was rushing after, and making vigorous efforts to catch the express train, which was fully a quarter of a mile ahead of her.

Somebody says, it is better to die poor than to live upon the hard earnings of the unsuspecting.

Early Rising.

There is a capital anecdote of the reign of Louis XVI. of France, according to which some ladies got it into their heads, from some book they had been reading, that it must be a glorious thing to see the sun rise. But as that took place in the only hours in which they were uniformly in bed, what was to be done? After much consideration, it being of course impossible for them to think of rising so early, they resolved to have a party and sit up all night and ride out just before day to the top of a neighboring hill and witness the strange phenomenon. This was duly performed; the friends then all went to bed, astonished at the degree to which they had realized themselves.

In New York there has been formed a Young Men's Early Rising Association, all the members of which are pledged to be up at a certain hour. It originated with about half a dozen men, who, having kept up this habit for some years, were surprised at its beneficial effects, and at the success in life of their associates.

A little watchful experience will render this not surprising to any thoughtful man. He who rises at five instead of seven daily adds perhaps ten years of the brightest hours to his life of active thought and exertion. Life will be prolonged, health and happiness will be preserved. All other animals but men sleep through the dark hours and wake with the light. The time of all the occupations of the day will be moved forward or backward by the time of rising. Not the breakfast alone, but all the meals and the hours of retiring will be governed by the habit. Such a man will drop to sleep in his chair at nine o'clock. So much the better. Consider the effect on the young man. It is at the late hour that bad company becomes most dangerous. Byron abuses the moon as the light beneath which a thousand times more wickedness is done than the sun, and he who at twenty is never out at ten will find it has saved him a fortune, and earned for him a character before he is forty, of which he may well be proud.

In married life this habit of being early to bed is worth years of life and happiness. The children are never wakeful till they have got to their first sleep. But after that, if a man has got all his repose to get, it will be so often broken as soon to break him down. He will become nervous simply for the want of sleep—sleep that he should have got from nine till midnight, unbroken, but which he cannot secure after. Intellectually a man can do twice the work while his mind is calm and clear, as it is early in the day, and as it is not and cannot be later. The very self denial and self-command indicated and encouraged by this habit is not its least value. He who learns to govern himself in one matter will in others.—Phil. Ledger.

The Tomato as Food.—Dr. Bonnet, a professor of some celebrity, considers the tomato an invaluable article of diet, and ascribes to it very important medical properties:

1st. That the tomato is one of the most powerful aperients of the liver and other organs; where calomel is indicated, it is probably one of the most effective and the least harmful remedial agents known to the profession. 2d. That a chemical extract will be obtained from it that will supersede the use of calomel in the cure of disease. 3d. That he has successfully treated diarrhea with this article. 4th. That when used as an article of diet it is almost sovereign for dyspepsy and indigestion. 5th. That it should be constantly used for daily food; either cooked, raw or in the form of catsup, it is the most healthy article now in use.

Hair of Children.—It is a great mistake to plait the hair of children under eleven or twelve years of age. The process of plaiting more or less strains the hairs in their roots by pulling them tight; tends to deprive them of their requisite supply of nutriment, and checks their growth. The hair of girls should be cut rather short, and allowed to curl freely. When they are eleven or twelve, the hair should be twisted into a coil not too tight nor tied at the end with thin thread, but with a piece of ribbon.

Parental Government.—Said the mother of John and Charles Wesley, "The first step to form the mind of a child is to conquer its will. When once subdued, then many indulgences can be safely granted."

Said the guilty Webster, when about to die for the fatal blow he dealt poor Parkman—not in malice, but in rage—"In early childhood, mine was a quick and off-hand temper, which was never subdued. I was a peevish and indulged child, and all this is the end of it." Restraints are necessary for the young.

At a vendue of the personal property of a Mr. Oaks, recently deceased in Dauphin county, a few days ago, a bag of flax-seed was offered for sale. One of the bidders put his hand into the bag to examine the seed, and hauled out a purse, which was found to contain gold and silver coin. The bag was then thoroughly overhauled, and over one thousand dollars in gold and silver coin were found therein. The treasure was kept by the executors.

A machine for manufacture of ice is now in operation in London, which turns out three tons of that commodity daily. It is the invention of a Mr. Harrison, of Australia. The refrigeration, as we learn from a recent number of an English journal, is produced by the evaporation of ether in a vacuum.

Children's games seem to be growing popular with adults now-a-days, as it is not an uncommon thing to see men of all ages chasing hoops in the street.

Roses and Trees.

There might be thousands more of plants and millions more of flowers, blooming in beauty and adding joy, health, happiness, to the owner and every passer by, who sees, admires and aspires to a silent, thankful prayer, from his heart, that makes its impulses better. Think of it, every soul that owns a foot of land or has one in charge upon which he could plant a rose tree to bloom in future years; if not for yourself, for your children, or to teach the children that wander so uncared for along the streets, to love flowers, from seeing them at every house they look up to as one above their own sphere, and love them, to learn to love these little arts of civilization that go to make up an improved whole. And so the little seed thus planted will doubly fructify, while the little bud upon the thorny stem is swelling into a flower, eyes that watch its progress may carry back to the heart an influence that shall bud and blossom there, and there unfolding bloom forever. Reader, go forth! Walk through the street. Open your eyes and look at roses blooming—see their happy influence upon children of tender years, as well as those of larger growth, and then go home, and beneath your own window, to climb in time to its liatel, to be a monument to your wife to time to you is ended, plant a rose. Look, too, at other flowers—the hardy, climbing, sweet-scented, crimson and variegated honeysuckle, how in two years it has grown and climbed up its frame from basement to parlor, and spread out a screen of limbs and leaves, and flowers that hide the window and perfume the air. What was it two years ago? A little twig cut from its parent stem for the sake of its fragrant flowers, carried miles in the hand, planted in a pot of moist, rich earth, watered and nurtured, and set where a stone was removed from the pavement, and now here it is blooming, blooming, blooming. Look, too, as you walk, at the waving branches of the trees, and at the cool shade they cast at your feet, and contrast this tree-lined street with your own bare walls and pavements, and then go home and plant a tree that, if it blooms no flowers, will leave a fragrant bloom in after years, to your memory. If you are a Christian man or woman, or a Christian parent's child, you will now promise,

The Treaty of Peace.

The Interview of the Emperors.

A letter from Vienna, of July 11, gives additional details concerning the interview of the two Emperors at Villafranca, which resulted in peace. We quote:

When the two sovereigns had arrived in sight of each other, they put their horses to a walking pace, and once side by side, they bowed courteously, and the Emperor of the French extended his hand, which was taken by Francis Joseph, but not a word passed between them.

It was towards the house bearing the number 322, (Cassa Gandini Morelli,) in the high street of Villafranca, that the two corteges directed their march. Both Emperors alighted from horseback at the same moment. Louis Napoleon courteously offered precedence to Francis Joseph, but with the respect due to superior age, the young Emperor drew back to allow his senior to pass in first. Not a soul entered the Casa Gandini Morelli with the pair; the two suites, the generals and the aides de camp remained standing without.

Marshal Vaillant, turning sick and faint with the heat of the sun, demanded a chair, which was brought from a neighboring house, and he was the only individual who remained seated during the interview going on within. What took place in that old salle casse of the Casa Gandini more civil, but when both left together it was observed that Louis Napoleon wore a more grave and care-worn air than he had done during the ride thither, and that Francis Joseph had lost the slight tinge of color he had on entering, and that his countenance was blanched to deadly paleness.

Both paused an instant on the threshold of the Casa Gandini, looked at each other intently for an instant, and by one simultaneous movement extended their hands. The mutual grasp with which the mutual courtesy was greeted seemed cordial, but neither looked towards the other again. Both mounted, and both rode off at a brisk trot towards their respective quarters. It was a quarter to nine when the Emperor entered Villafranca, it was just a quarter past eleven when Louis Napoleon returned to Vallegio. In that interval had been settled the future destinies of Eastern Europe.

From the several Italian correspondents of the London Times we get the following paragraphs:

"When the Sovereigns were about to enter the house the Noble Guards were ranged on the right in the vestibule, and the Cent Gardes on the left. The Emperor Francis Joseph insisted on the Emperor Napoleon entering first. The Emperor invited Francis Joseph to breakfast, but the latter begged to be excused, as he had breakfasted before setting out. The two Emperors then entered the sitting room alone. Their Majesties sat down at opposite sides of the table. The Emperor Napoleon laid on the table a few cigarettes in an envelope, and offered one to the young Sovereign, who declined it. Although no person heard a word of what had passed at this interview, I can state that but more frequently in German; not a word was written down. During the conversation the Emperor Napoleon, as if mechanically, picked to pieces some of the flowers placed in a vase before him. On issuing from the house the Emperor Napoleon conversed an instant with Baron Bress, while Francis Joseph spoke with Marshal Vaillant. Their Majesties then briefly inspected their escorts. The Emperor of Austria was so struck with the uniform and bearing of the Cent Gardes and Guides that he openly expressed his admiration. He also asked whether these soldiers formed part of the Imperial Guard."

Italy.

Strong indications of discontent at the terms of the peace were visible in some parts of Italy. At Florence great agitation prevailed, and the Provisional Government had issued a proclamation which describes the peace of Villafranca as betraying the finest hopes; says that the Tuscan Government participated in the sentiment of the Tuscan people on the subject, and declares that Tuscany will not be replaced under the yoke and influence of Austria against her will and rights.

According to the Nord a French corps d'armee of forty thousand men will remain in Italy until the re-organization of the country according to the tenor of the peace of Villafranca.

The Piedmontese correspondent of the Daily News says that fresh Piedmontese troops are going to Romagna, with Napoleon's consent, to maintain order, and take from the Pope all hope of recovering it by the help of the Swiss Guards.

The most important towns of the Roman States have sent deputations to Garibaldi.

Modena and Parma are said to be in a state of revolt.

The Emperor of Austria, according to an official despatch which has reached Paris, commands the whole of his forces to remain in Pastrol, and to be provided with food and military resources just as they would have been had no peace been declared.

Orders have been given to some of the French ships to protect French subjects and property in Tuscany in case of need.

The Paris correspondent of the London Post says that it has never been intended to support by the army of France the return of the Grand Duke of Tuscany.

It was reported that Sardinia had recalled her representatives from Tuscany and Modena, and that the Provisional Government of Tuscany and Modena were organizing forces to oppose the return of the respective Grand Dukes.

Chevalier Perizzi had been sent from Florence to Paris on a special mission.

Boston, July 30.—The morning express train from New Bedford and Fall River came in collision with a carriage at the crossing in North Bridgewater, in which were a man, two ladies, and a child. One of the ladies and the child were instantly killed, and the man and remaining lady were terribly hurt and it is feared fatally injured. The whistle was blown and the brakes applied to the train as soon as the carriage was seen, but the man persisted in whipping his horse forward, which was the cause of the disaster.

The Queen of Portugal died on the 16th of July, from a severe attack of sore throat. It will be remembered that she was married only a few months since.

The Ticket.

In another column will be found the proceedings of the People's Convention which assembled in this place on Monday last. The Convention was a very harmonious one, and has presented a Ticket which is very acceptable to the party, and will bring to its support an influence and popularity which will show our Democratic friends that their supremacy in the County is but short-lived.

Our worthy representative, Mr. DURBORAW, who so faithfully and reputably sustained his former high reputation, was nominated by acclamation—a fact which speaks volumes in his favor.

Mr. Ressek, the candidate nominated for Commissioner, is a man of business talent and energy, and has qualifications for the office rarely surpassed. The vote in the "lower end" will show how he is appreciated by those who know him.

The Director of the Poor, Mr. CHRISTIAN MUSSELMAN, has no enemies—he ought not, cannot have any. To a high reputation for honesty and integrity, he adds a strong mind and correct judgment, which fit him admirably for any position of the kind. The "upper end" will tell the tale of what his neighbors think of him.

For Auditor, we have Mr. HOLLINGER, a merchant of Heidlersburg, an excellent accountant, well backed up in matters of this character, and one who will see that "all is right."

The nomination for Treasurer has fallen upon Dr. E. G. FARNESTOCK, of the Borough. For promptness, correctness and integrity, he is proverbial. These facts give a guarantee of the faithful performance of his duties, and will tell upon the public, who are always interested in having a good, safe and efficient custodian of the public funds.

For County Surveyor, we have Mr. CUNNINGHAM, of Freedom. We learn that he is well versed in the profession he has adopted, and will be a very correct and prompt officer.

The Convention re-nominated our neighbor, WM. B. MCCLELLAN, Esq., for District Attorney—a compliment highly deserved for the promptness and energy he has exhibited during the period he has held the office. His vote at the election will show his popularity among those who have been observant of his course.

On the whole, we congratulate our friends that we have presented for our support a Ticket which comprises so many elements of worth and popularity. We anticipate a triumph without, which will bring back our noble little County to its ancient faith.

The laying of the corner-stone of the Catholic Church in course of erection on land contributed by Mr. Alexander Shorb, at Bonaughtown, in this county, took place yesterday week, in the presence of a vast concourse of people, numbering from twelve to fifteen hundred. The exercises at the corner-stone were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Catanna, of Conowago, and the sermon was preached, from a stand erected for the purpose, by the Rev. Mr. Hitzelberger, of Frederick, Md.

The annual commencement of the Female Seminary at Lutherville, near Baltimore, took place on the 28th ult. The exercises on the occasion were very interesting. Nine young ladies graduated, and received their diplomas. The Rev. Mr. Besick, who has been principal of the Seminary for some time, resigned his situation on that day, and Prof. Wm. R. Creery, A. M., was inaugurated in his room. Mr. Esick took charge of a Female Seminary at Hanover.

Our young friend, A. H. DILL, Esq., who had his "shingle" out here for a short time, has left for Tennessee. We heartily wish him success.

Mr. John Martin has sold his farm in Franklin township, to Mr. John Hartman, 140 acres, for $2,450 cash.

The delightful rains of last week have given fresh vigor to the growing crop of corn, and will add thousands of bushels to what was anticipated a week ago.

The Rev. Mr. Van Wyck.

A report having been very generally circulated in this community, that the late Pastor of the Presbyterian Church in this place, Rev. Mr. VAN WYCK, had, on his return home a few weeks ago, traveled on the Sabbath from Baltimore north, I felt it a duty, as a friend of that gentleman, to address a note of inquiry to the Presbyterian Clergyman at Newark, (Del.) at whose house Mr. Van Wyck informed me, when we parted at Hanover on Saturday the 25th of June, he intended to spend the Sabbath—taking the Saturday afternoon train from Baltimore. To my letter the reverend gentleman very promptly replied. As an act of justice to Mr. Van Wyck, and to disabuse the public mind upon the subject, I have thought it imperative upon me to publish it. It will be found below.

ROBERT G. HARPER.

NEWARK, (Del.), July 28, '59.

R. G. HARPER, Esq.:
Dear Sir—Your's of the 26th was received this morning, and I hasten to reply. The Rev. GEORGE P. VAN WYCK reached my house, from Baltimore, on Saturday evening the 25th of June. He preached for me on Sabbath, morning and evening, and the next day went to Philadelphia on his way to his home in New York. I am very much surprised at the rumor to which you refer, and which, as you will see, is totally destitute of foundation. I have been acquainted with Mr. Van Wyck for many years—while he was settled at Berlin, Md., and afterwards at Chester, Pa.—visited him at both those places, and have frequently entertained him at my house, and I can truly say that I have never seen anything in his conduct unbecoming the character of a Christian and a gentleman.

Very respectfully, your's, &c.

J. L. VALLANDIGHAM.

Death of Wm. S. Cobean, Esq.
Intelligence has just reached us, that our esteemed friend and former townsman, Wm. S. COBEAN, Esq., died at the residence of his brother-in-law (Dr. Fisher) in York, on Saturday evening last. He has been in ill health for some time past. His age was about 66. For many years a resident here, he had the respect and esteem of every one; and the same high reputation was sustained wherever he lived. He was the very soul of honor and kindly feeling, and unbending integrity, and many a tear will be given to his memory.

Renting of Pews.

A large meeting of the German Reformed Congregation in this place was held on Saturday last, to take into consideration the propriety of introducing the Pew Rent system into the Church—liberty the support of the Pastor being dependent upon subscriptions annually solicited. It was decided that the Pews should hereafter be rented; and we learn that the Congregation, although much divided upon the question, have cheerfully gone into the measure since.

The Installation of the Rev. Mr. BUCHER, as Pastor of the Church, will take place on Saturday next.

Public School of the Borough.

On Saturday evening last, the Directors of the Public School of this borough made the following appointments:

Leigh R. Baugher, Principal.
Robert A. Lytle, Vice Principal.
Miss McClellan, 1st Assistant.
Miss Whiteside, 2d do.
Miss McCurdy, 3d do.
Miss Thompson, 4th do.
Miss Myers, 1st Primary Teacher.
Miss Powers, 2d do.

The next session will commence on the 1st of September.

Fire.

On Friday morning last, about 3 o'clock, the stable of Mr. ADNER TOWNLEY, in West High street, was discovered on fire, and in a short time was entirely destroyed, with its contents. A horse, a set of harness, two or three tons of hay, and other valuable articles, together with a stack of hay adjoining, were destroyed.—No insurance. The origin of the fire is not known.

Pic-Nics.

The Lutheran & German Reformed Sabbath Schools of Bendersville intend having a pic-nic on Saturday next, in a grove convenient to the town. It is expected that the Citizens' Band from Gettysburg will be present.

There is also to be a general pic-nic on the 27th inst., in Snyder's Grove, on the banks of the Conowago.

The Commissioners, Register and Recorder, and Clerk of the Courts, have taken possession of their beautiful offices in the new Court-house, and find them very comfortable and convenient.

At the late commencement of Wittenberg College, the honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon Professor JACOBS, of Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg.

The same Degree was also conferred by Jefferson College, Canonsburg, a few days ago. Honors are fast clustering around our scientific townsman.

The Hanover Branch Railroad Company has declared a dividend of $1 per share on the capital stock.

Mrs. Rudisill died in the vicinity of Hanover on Friday week, at the extraordinary age of one hundred and twelve years.

President Buchanan has written a letter, in which he positively declines a re-nomination. He returned to Washington on Tuesday last, from his visit to Bedford Springs, and proceeded at once to the Soldier's Home, near the City, which is his summer residence.

County Committee Meeting.

The members of the County Committee, appointed by the late People's County Convention, are requested to meet in McCONAUGHY'S Hall, on Tuesday the 16th inst. (Court-week), at 1 o'clock, P. M. A full attendance is desirable, as business of importance will claim the attention of the Committee.
D. A. BUEHLER,
Aug. 8. Chairman.

Sheriff's Sales.

The Sheriff of Adams county, on Saturday last, sold the following Real Estate, viz.:

The property of Bernard Devine, in Hamiltonban township, 97 acres, to Jacob Musselman, for $420; and a tract of Woodland, 77 acres, of the same, to George Arnold, for $25.

A Tract of Woodland, in Franklin township, property of Wm. F. Walter, 65 acres, to Jacob Orner, for $80.

Farm of John Adair, in Franklin township, 84 acres, to Maria S. Shott, for $1,000; House and Lot in Gettysburg, to John Brown, for $800; and 4 acre of ground in Gettysburg to John Houck, for $45.

The Foundry Buildings of Border & Ross, in East Berlin, to David Border, for $1450.

5.	412 " Cleaver & Hendr, 110
6.	445 " T. Stevens, 105
12.	466 " Jacob Musselman, 65

Franklin County.

On Tuesday last, the People's Convention of that County was held at Chambersburg, and the following Ticket placed in nomination:

Assembly—James R. Brewster.
Commissioner—J. S. Good.
Auditor—John Downey.
Director—David Spencer.
Treasurer—John Stouffer.
Sheriff—Wm. McGrath.
Surveyor—John B. Kaufman.
District Attorney—George Eyster.

Col. A. K. McCURE received the nomination for Senator, by a vote of 66 to 8; and H. S. Stoner, Wm. Hammet and George Jarret were appointed Senatorial Conferees.

We understand that Fulton will not present a candidate for Senator, but will support Mr. McClure. The Conferees from this county are personally favorable to the Col., although they go un instructed.—There is no doubt, therefore, that he will be the People's candidate for Senator in this District. He is a man of talent and energy, and our Democratic friends will find it rather a troublesome business to get ahead of him.

Col. McClure.

A very abusive article of this gentleman appeared in the Chambersburg Valley Spirit a week or two ago, which has elicited great censure from the community there, and the Press also. The proprietor and editors of that paper, Messrs. Dechert, Ripper, Neugel, and Boyle, were called upon by Col. McClure, who exhibited to them proofs of the falsity of the charge, and asked them to retract. They declined doing so, and the Col. at once instituted a suit for Libel against them. They were arrested and held to bail for their appearance at the next Court.

The Rev. Levi Bull, D. D., of the Episcopal Church, died at his residence in Chester county, on Tuesday last, of cholera morbus, in the 79th year of his age. He has been more than half a century in the ministry. Few men have filled so large a sphere of usefulness as Dr. Bull.

That very able Divine, the Rev. JAMES W. ALEXANDER, D. D., Pastor of the Fifth Avenue and 19th street Presbyterian Church, New York, died very suddenly yesterday week, at the Red Sweet Springs, Va. His remains were interred at Princeton, New Jersey, on Wednesday last.

The steamer Persia arrived at New York on Wednesday, with Liverpool dates to the 23d ult. There is a very dissatisfied condition of affairs in Italy, the discontent being unabated, and the explanations of the Emperor Napoleon not deemed satisfactory.—It is thought doubtful whether peace can be long preserved. The conference between France and Austria was to assemble at Zurich in about a week.

The Kentucky election has resulted in the election of the Democratic candidate for Governor (Magoffin) by a small majority; and in the Legislature, the Democrats will have a small majority on joint ballot.—The Congressmen stand Democrats 7, Opposition 3. This is a Democratic loss of one member.

The returns from sixteen counties in Tennessee of the election on Thursday, so far give the Opposition candidate for Governor a gain of about 2,300. Five Congressional districts have been heard from, which have elected four Opposition, and one Democrat—being a gain of two members to the Opposition.

On Tuesday afternoon last, the barn of Mr. Franklin G. Emmert, near Hanover, was struck by lightning, and entirely consumed, with its contents—loss $1,000, and no insurance.

People's County Convention.

In pursuance to the call issued by the County Executive Committee of the People's Party, the Delegates from the several townships in the County assembled in Convention, in McCONAUGHY'S Hall, in the Borough of Gettysburg, on Monday last, at 10 o'clock, A. M., to put in nomination a Ticket to be supported at the approaching Election in October, and to transact such other business as might be brought before the Convention. The meeting was called to order and organized by the election of the following officers:—

PRESIDENT.

Col. JOHN WOLFORD, of Latimore.

A. S. HIMES and DAVID B. BLYTHE, Esqrs.

The credentials of the Delegates from the several townships were then received, and the Delegates took their seats, to wit: Gettysburg—C. H. Buehler, Wm. King, Cumberland—Henry Lot, Robert M'Ganghy, Oxford—Franklin Hersh, A. S. Himes, Huntingdon—Henry Shultz, James Davis, Latimore—John Wolford, Daniel Minnigh, Hamiltonban—Andrew Marshall, David B. Blythe.

Liberty—Jno. Musselman, Wm. H. Grayson, Franklin—John Picking, Geo. W. Hildebrand.

Menallen—A. T. Wright, Wm. S. Cart, Straban—John N. Boyer, Cornelius Lot, Franklin—James Ewing, Peter Brough.

Berwick Borough—Samuel Metzger, Edward Stahl.

The Convention proceeded to ballot for Senatorial Conferees, resulting in the selection of the following gentlemen:

C. H. Buehler, J. K. McIlhenny and Franklin Hersh.

On motion of James Davis, Esq., the proceedings of the Convention were ratified and the nominations for all the offices made unanimous.

The Chair then announced the following County Committee for the ensuing year:

COUNTY COMMITTEE.

David A. Buehler, Franklin Hersh, John Scott, Abraham Reever, Henry Comfort, William Young, E. B. Picking, John Cunningham, Charles Horner, Rufus O. Swope, David McCaughy, James Davis, David Schriever, John D. Becker, Henry Lot, William Grayson, Daniel S. Barnitz, Abel T. Wright, Cornelius Lot, Samuel Sandler, Jno. N. Boyer, Dr. C. Blish, Francis S. Hildebrand, Henry Mickle, Cornelius B. Haines, Samuel P. Young, Abraham Ziegler, Edward Stahl.

We notice in some localities that the gutters are choked up with growing grass. As a sanitary measure this grass ought to be removed, and the gutters cleared out, so that no obstruction may exist to the free passage of water or other liquids thrown into the streets.

Jacob Zigler, an old and respectable citizen of Shepherdstown, Va., was struck by a stone last week, thrown by some unknown person, and killed. Three youths from Dam No. 4, on the canal, have been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the affair.

Frightful Railroad Accident.

A terrible accident occurred on Tuesday night, on the Northern Railroad, near Albany. While the down train was passing over the bridge which spans the Toulhannock, it was precipitated into the creek below, a distance of 20 to 25 feet. The water was about 6 to 8 feet deep. Thirteen persons were killed, and twenty wounded.

The steamer Arabia sailed from New York on Wednesday, for Liverpool, with 119 passengers, and about $450,000 in specie.

Three steamers sailed from New York for Europe on Saturday week—the American steamer Ariel, with 130 passengers and $702,717 in specie; the British steamer Ariel, with 75 passengers and $1,215,000 in specie; and the steamer Washington, with 225 passengers and $1,215,000 in specie—more than THREE MILLIONS in one day, to pay for foreign luxuries! The Compiler is bragging that two millions of gold arrived from California the other day, and thinks the cry will soon be that the precious metal is "too plenty!"

How ridiculous! Occasionally we receive gold from California—but what is it, compared with what we have to send out to pay for what we should manufacture at home. It seems almost incredible the amount of specie that is going out to Europe, which might be retained at home, if a proper policy was pursued by the General Government, and the interests of the country not sacrificed at the shrine of Buchanan Democracy! Will the people never awaken to their duty.

Our venerable Irish friend, John Henderson, a retired merchant of Baltimore, and who had been a resident of that city and a business-man in Howard-street, for 65 years, died on Thursday night last, in his 96th year. We have known him for many years as a kind, generous, whole-hearted man, and he was highly respected by all around him. He never married, and leaves a large fortune.

The yellow fever is said to be an epidemic at Tampico, and generally along the coast of Northern Mexico. Much alarm is felt in consequence.

The 6th of July was the hottest day ever known in the South of France—the thermometer having attained the extraordinary height of 118 degrees of Fahrenheit!

Imports of Foreign Dry Goods.—The imports of foreign dry goods at New York for July amounted to $14,635,

PROCLAMATION.
 WHEREAS the Hon. ROBERT J. FISHER,

NOTICE is HEREBY GIVEN to all the Justices of the Peace, the Coroner and Constables within the said County of Adams, that they be then and therein their proper persons, with their Rolls, Records, Inquisitions, Examinations, and other Remembrances, to do those things which to their offices and in that behalf appertain to be done, and also, they who will prosecute against the prisoners that are or when shall be in the Jail of the said County of Adams, are to be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.
